

Zenobia Brown, MD, MPH

(She/Her/Hers)

Chief Clinical Officer, Village MD

Dr. Brown received her medical degree from Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons and completed a family medicine residency and chief residency at New York-Presbyterian/Columbia University Medical Center. Dr. Brown continued her community work at the Sarasota County Department of Health, delivering community-based services in primary, geriatric, and palliative care. Zenobia also received a master's degree in public health from the University of South Florida.

Dr. Brown has spent her 25-year career in public, community, and population health innovating healthcare across broad populations representing diverse geographic, clinical, and social vulnerability. Her expertise is in clinical and technological integrations, novel technology deployment, and operational innovations to achieve meaningful clinical outcomes at scale. Through program design and implementation, Dr. Brown has decreased readmissions in geriatric seniors, improved surgical subspecialty outcomes through hospital and provider alignment and care navigation, improved HEDIS and quality measures, and decreased maternal morbidities through systems improvement, care coordination, and patient advocacy. She has also lead home based primary care programs which have improved the lives of seniors, generating financial savings and strong clinical outcomes. Her approach is grounded in a framework of diversity, equity, inclusion, and justice for patients and providers.

Since 2014 Dr. Brown has applied these talents to the value-based strategy at Northwell Health, where she ultimately served as Associate Chief Medical Officer, SVP, and Executive Director of Health Solutions, Northwell's Care Management Organization (CMO). In 2024 Dr. Brown transitioned to Village MD as their Chief Clinical Officer contributing to the clinical excellence of care nationally and management of medical expense initiatives and programming. She is board-certified in Family Medicine and Hospice and Palliative Care and is a professor at the Hofstra School of Medicine, publishing her work and lecturing nationally and globally on population health, value-based care, payment reform and clinical transformation.
