

Eliza Lo Chin, MD, MPH

Eliza Lo Chin, MD, MPH is the Executive Director of the American Medical Women's Association (AMWA). In this role, she helps lead AMWA's strategic vision and oversees all of AMWA's programs and initiatives. She has served as co-chair/co-director of national/international meetings, executive producer of the short film At Home and Over There: American Women Physicians in WWI, and member of several advisory/editorial boards. Dr. Chin is also Assistant Professor (Voluntary) at the University of California, San Francisco. She is treasurer of the Medical Women's International Association and an AMWA Representative to the United Nations Department of Global Communications. A graduate of UC Berkeley, Dr. Chin received her MD from Harvard Medical School and her MPH from Columbia University, Mailman School of Public Health. She is the editor of This Side of Doctoring: Reflections from Women in Medicine and was featured in the National Library of Medicine Exhibitions, Changing the Face of Medicine: Celebrating America's Women Physicians and Rise, Serve, Lead! America's Women Physicians.

She has been a visiting scholar with the Women's Leadership Institute of Mills College, and California delegate to Vision 2020. A recipient of several awards, she is a Master of the American College of Physicians and a Fellow of AMWA. Her interests include women's leadership and mentoring, women's health, geriatrics, medical humanities, and history of women in medicine.