

Tricia C. Elliott, MD, FAAFP
Sr. Vice President, Academic and Research Affairs,
Chief Academic Officer, Designated Institutional Official
JPS Health Network
Professor, Family Medicine
Burnett School of Medicine at Texas Christian University
Adjunct Clinical Professor, Family Medicine
UNT Health Science Center Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine
Adjunct Professor, Family Medicine
University of Texas Medical Branch School of Medicine

Tricia C. Elliott, MD, FAAFP graduated from Rice University and received her medical degree from University of Texas Medical Branch. She went on to complete her residency in Family Medicine at Albert Einstein/Montefiore Medical Center Residency Program in Social Medicine. Dr. Elliott is board certified in Family Medicine by the American Board of Family Medicine. She is past president of the Society of Teachers of Family Medicine, a past president and past board chair of the Texas Academy of Family Physicians, and appointed member of the Texas Medical Association's Council on Medical Education. She has over 25 years of graduate medical education (GME) experience and has provided administrative and clinical leadership across various types of health systems, including academic medical centers, a multi-specialty group practice, and a community-based, university-affiliated teaching hospital, in the roles of clinical faculty, program director, Vice Chair for Clinical Affairs, Senior Vice President of Medical Staff Affairs, and currently as Senior Vice President of Academic & Research Affairs/Chief Academic Officer/DIO at JPS Health Network in Fort Worth, Texas. She is Professor in Family Medicine at Burnett School of Medicine at Texas Christian University, Adjunct Clinical Professor at UNTHSC Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine, and Adjunct Professor at University of Texas Medical Branch School of Medicine.

Dr. Elliott's academic interests include graduate and undergraduate medical education, learner assessments, health care advocacy and policy, health equity and community health, workforce strategies and development, institutional wellbeing strategies, and leadership development and mentoring. Her clinical interests include primary prevention, chronic disease management, women's health, migraine management, ambulatory procedural training, patient education, and community medicine. Her personal interests include singing/vocal performance, collecting art, cooking, dancing, public speaking, and travel.