

Jacqueline Winfield Fincher, MD, MACP, is a primary care internal medicine physician in private practice for the last 37 years in the rural East Georgia town of Thomson. She is a partner at the Center for Primary Care where she serves on the Executive Committee and is the Chair of the Well Being Committee.

She is a graduate of Oral Roberts University and the Medical College of Georgia School of Medicine where she also did her residency in Internal Medicine. Dr Fincher has a long-standing commitment to patient advocacy and health care policy at the state and national level. She is a passionate advocate for the value of internal medicine physicians in the healthcare system and scope of practice issues in primary care.

Dr Fincher is a Master in the American College of Physicians and served as the national President in 2020-2021. She served on the ACP Board of Regents for 5 years where she was Chair of the Medical Practice and Quality Committee and Vice Chair of the Health and Public Policy Committee. She is also a past Governor of the Georgia ACP Chapter.

Dr Fincher is married to a family physician, mother to a pediatrician, and daughter of an ObGyn. Primary care is her family business.

She enjoys travel, live music, and civil political discussion.
