

Susan Y. Lee, MD, FACP

Susan Lee is a Professor of Clinical Medicine at SUNY Stony Brook Renaissance School of Medicine. She serves as the Medical Director of Stony Brook Primary Care and is the lead physician for Patient Center Medical Home Accreditation for the faculty Internal Medicine practices. Additionally, she is a Deputy Chief Medical Information Officer for Stony Brook Medicine. She is a proud graduate of Wellesley College and NYU School of Medicine and completed her residency in Internal Medicine at New York Hospital–Cornell. Board-certified in Internal Medicine, Dr. Lee has over two decades of experience in academic medicine, primary care, and quality improvement. She has served as Director of the Introduction to Clinical Medicine course for the medical students, Associate Program Director for the Medicine-Pediatrics Residency Program and is a recognized leader in ambulatory care transformation. As Fellow of the American College of Physicians, she was the past Governor and President of the New York Chapter of the American College of Physicians. She currently is serving as an elected Regent for the American College of Physicians. She has won awards for outstanding service, leadership in medical education and patient care. As a proud Internal Medicine Physician, she has been listed as a Castle Connolly Best Doctor in her community for many years.